Jeff Corbin, Senior Writer

Jeff Corbin is an Account Manager and Senior Writer with Landmark Communications Inc. Jeff is a native of Louisiana, and he has lived in metro Atlanta for nearly 25 years.

Jeff has nearly a decade of progressive leadership roles in media and public relations. His professional experiences include years of service as a newspaper reporter and magazine staff writer. He has extensively covered business and political trends developing throughout Georgia.

During his time in the metro area, Jeff has lived and worked in Gwinnett, Cherokee, Cobb and Fulton Counties. He has reported on monumental periods in history, including the aftermath of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks as well as the Republican resurgence in Georgia politics.

Jeff has contributed news coverage receiving statewide awards from the Associated Press of Georgia and Georgia Press Association. He has completed numerous professional training sessions, including those offered by the Donald W. Reynolds National Center for Business Journalism at the American Press Institute.

When he is not developing messages and strategies for Landmark Communications clients, Jeff travels near and far with his wife, Teresa. He is an attentive fan of almost any sport, but the Corbins share a love for all things baseball. Jeff is also a self-styled film critic and frequent blogger.

Jeff and Teresa are proud graduates of Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C., where he majored in print journalism with a minor in political science.
